GENERAL DEBILITY and Indigestion

Made Her Life Miserable, but She is Cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla
 Read the testimony of Mrs. E. G. Moore, Coburg, Victoria, whose portrait is also given:

"Some few years ago I suffered terribly with indigestion and general debility. I could not sleep, and my condition was such as to make my life miserable. None of the many remedies I tried did me any good, and I despaired of ever getting better. One of my friends told me of the blood-purifying and strength-giving properties of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and I began taking it. Before I had finished the first bottle I felt better, and was thus encouraged to give the medicine a thorough trial. In all I used four bottles, and then was perfectly cured of the grievous trouble which had afflicted me. I now recommend, to anyone suffering as I did,

The Prince of Wales on the Crisis—Explosion on H. M. S. Repulse—Notable Death.

The Prince of Wales, speaking at York, replied to the New York World's articles, and expressed his belief that the crisis would be arranged in a manner satisfactory to both countries, and that the same warm friendship which had existed for so many years would continue.

The Times' New York correspondent wires that the Prince of Wales, by his speech, showed that he well understood the feeling of parties in the United States, and the opinion in the country is that they can accept his message as being equally gratifying to both, and as likely to be interpreted as expressing the Queen's sentiments.

At a very successful seance in Cincinnati the other night, a man burst into tears when the medium described very accurately a tall, blue-eyed spirit standing by him, with light side whiskers and his hair parted in the middle. "Do you know him?" inquired a man at his side in a sympathetic whisper. "Know him? I guess I do," replied the unhappy man, wiping his eyes. "He was engaged to my wife. If he hadn't died he would have been her husband instead of me. Oh, George, George!" he murmured, in a voice choked with emotion, "why did you peg out?"

A Paris correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette tells this singular story of the supervision of the French press: In the days of the Empire a fiery editor of the South was summoned before the correctional police, and was fined for an article written by a person whose name he refused to reveal till the court had pronounced its sentence. The verdict delivered, the editor betrayed the name of the guilty party. It was that of the Emperor.

YESTERDAY'S MATCH RACE.

A GOOD CONTENT AT KAPIOLANI RACE TRACK.

Clarence Macfarlane's Salvador Defeats Gus Schuman's Judah—A Spirited Race and Some Betting.

Some three hundred people visited the race track at Kapiolani park yesterday afternoon to witness the match race between Clarence Macfarlane's Salvador and Gus Schuman's Judah, both horses being Hawaiian bred and half brother and sister. There were quite a number of ladies in the grand stand and in carriages. The track was never in better condition in the opinion of experts. J. J. Sullivan, W. M. Cunningham and Charles Belina acted as judges and starters and the race was for $250 a side. By private agreement no official time was announced by the judges.

Salvador won the toss for the pole and the horses were called up for the first heat about ten minutes past three. Previous to the start the drivers were warned that no unnecessary scoring would be permitted. At the third attempt the word was given. Salvador, who was about two lengths behind, broke with the word and did not get down to business until the first quarter. Approaching the half-mile post the Schuman mare broke badly and Salvador recovered the several lengths he was behind and took the lead. The mare, however, soon passed him, although breaking rearing into the home.

Salvador was again in the lead and the mare settled down and won the heat by about two lengths. The time as taken by bystanders was 2:50. After the heat Macfarlane protested that the heat be either called off or declared a dead one, claiming that his horse broke before reaching the wire. The judges, however, decided that if his horse had a poor start it was more than made up for by the numerous breaks of the more speedy mare, and they declined to interfere.

In the second heat the horses got off on the fourth attempt, Salvador having a good length the best of the start. The mare broke badly at the turn and Salvador increased his lead, going like a machine. The quarter was made in 43 seconds and the half in 1:25. Judah broke repeatedly and at the three quarter post the horse was seven or eight lengths ahead. She recovered herself and came down the homestretch in gallant shape, but broke again and the horse took the heat by two lengths. Unofficial time for the heat, 2:47.

The betting had hitherto been in favor of the mare, but two to one was freely offered on the horse when time was called for the third heat. The horses got away on the third attempt with a splendid start, but the heat was only a repetition of the preceding one, the mare repeatedly breaking while the horse worked like a clock. Judah ran nearly all of the first quarter, and at the half was away behind. The mare repeatedly broke and at the three-quarter pole became unmanageable and failed to reach the distance pole before the flag dropped.

There was no question in the minds of those who saw the race that Schuman's mare was the more speedy of the two, and that had it not been for the frequent and disastrous breaks she would have won the race.
